County School Board refuses to hear HNC basketball coach

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County School Board Monday night denied a teacher-coach the right to address the board because he had not followed the "proper channels," but Superintendent Terry Randolph stressed the action was not the same restrictions as imposed by Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District's controversial Policy 18.

The board also welcomed

Democratic School Superintendent Nominee Billy Sills to the meeting, promising to "assist any man who works in the best interest of the children of the school district."

Hancock North-Central Girls' Basketball Coach Charlie Jacobs was cut short by Board President Woodrow Ladner when he attempted to speak to the board about team equipment.

"I would like to discuss school and athletics in general, primarily hand me downs," Jacobs stated before being interrupted by Ladner.

"Have you gone through the principals and head coaches before coming to the board," Ladner asked.

"You can ultimately come before the board with a grievance, but we prefer it if you go through the proper channels first," the board president continued.

"We have a policy which covers this," he added.

Randolph said the policy requires teachers and coaches to go through their principal and the superintendent prior to bringing a grievance before the board, but also states a teacher does not have to go through these channels to speak to the board for a clarification.

Jacobs went into an impromptu conference with Principal Thad Haskins in the board room, and Haskins said Jacobs was seeking a clarification.

Both Haskins and Randolph said Jacobs had discussed with them the matter he wanted to address to the board.

"He has come to me 50 or 60 times. He has dealt with the head coach already," Haskins said.

Randolph then said the school board policy is not like the Bay St. Louis school systems' restrictive Policy 18, which limits a person to a 10 minute slot on the board agenda after going through a principal and superintendent for approval.

"This is not exactly like Policy 18," Randolph stated.

Ladner told Jacobs to "sit down and read the policy book carefully."

"If that does not clarify the matter, we will be glad to assist you in clarification," Ladner added.

Also at Monday's meeting the board offered its assistance and loyalty to Sills.

Ladner asked Sills to address the board, and Sills said he is going to do what is "best for the children of Hancock County."

"I hope I can fill Terry Randolph's shoes," Sills told the board.

"I would like to say publicly that Mr. Randolph congratulated me and has offered me his assistance in any way, an offer which I am taking advantage of now," he continued.

"I will continue working with the taxpayers and the board, working for what is best for the children of Hancock County," he added.

Ladner welcomed Sills to the meeting, and said, "We offer you assistance of the board. We will stand behind any man who works for the children of the county."

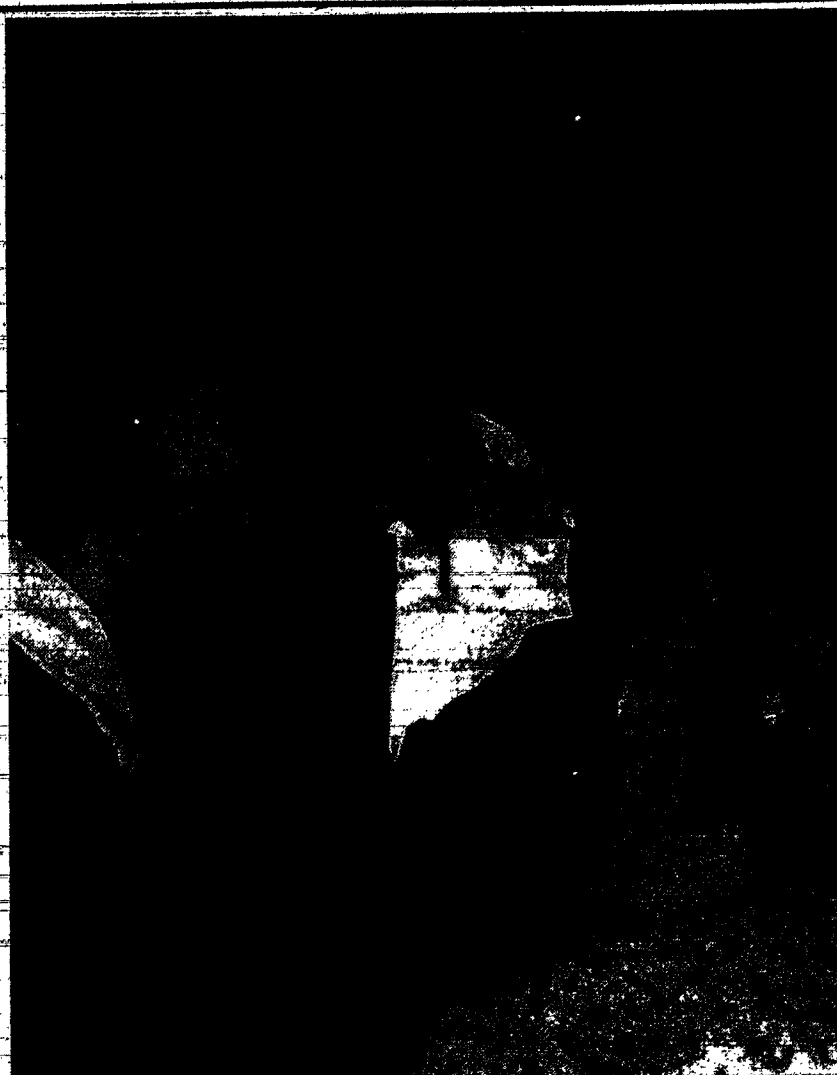

Also at the meeting, Robert Ladner told the board he will bid for 640 sections of 16th Section oil lease land to begin a corporation to construct homes from melted sand.

Robert Ladner said he plans to bid for the land using his bids on approximately 12.75 percent of the assessed value of the property.

He and his wife, stockholders in IntraMonetary Corporation, will then begin industrialization of the land in building the homes, he said.

He said sand will be melted to a point before it becomes glass, and will be used to construct "insect and rodent free homes, which will be floated to Mexico to replace ghettos."

The board recessed until Saturday, when it will meet at the Youth Court building at 9 a.m.

Carmichael campaign headquarters opened

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Some 50 supporters gathered to welcome gubernatorial candidate Gil Carmichael at the grand opening of his campaign headquarters on US-90 in Bay St. Louis Saturday.

"As I look at you here today I realize that you are the source of my strength," Carmichael proclaimed to the group.

The candidate, who appeared fatigued, said he had just been to Leetown and also had spoken to another county's board of supervisors before coming to Bay St. Louis.

"I found out I have some kin folks in Leetown on my wife's side," Carmichael told the crowd, adding that he lost most of his votes in rural Mississippi the last time he ran for governor.

Carmichael praised the group of Republicans, Democrats and Independents gathered at the Bay headquarters, exclaiming, "This group here is instrumental in developing a two party system in Mississippi."

The candidate promised, if elected, he will make bi-partisan appointments to state posts. "The governor makes some 1,200 appointments and I plan to appoint both Republican and Democrats to the positions."

"If you are qualified to serve in one of these positions let me know. If you are not qualified and help me politically I will not be able to help you," Carmichael insisted.

Carmichael outlined a few plans he would like to institute if elected governor, including the reinstatement of capital punishment.

"I want the death penalty brought back for two crimes," Carmichael exclaimed. The crowd burst into applause.

After the applause subsided, Carmichael said, "I want people who commit rape and kidnap murders and who kill police to receive capital punishment for such crimes."

Randolph seeks 2 mills for handicapped center

By RICH ADAMS

Hancock County School Superintendent Terry Randolph Monday asked the Board of Supervisors to assess a special two mill levy on Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and county taxpayers for construction and operation of a handicapped student education and therapy center.

During his address to the board, Randolph and outgoing District Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson engaged in a heated discussion about location of a proposed school for the southern end of the county.

Randolph told the board he needed approximately $100,000 to construct the handicapped center, explaining a recently leased facility in Silver Creek is not adequate for education of handicapped children and adults.

Randolph said school district money will be used to construct the proposed handicapped center, and the two mill levy will be allocated for operation and maintenance for the first year.

After the first year, the two mill levy will be filtered to the school district to repay the $100,000 of surplus. 16th Section oil lease funds used to construct the building, the superintendent proposed.

District One Supervisor Bart Courge said the board had already allocated the maximum millage allowed to education, and asked Randolph if the proposed two mills will be classified as educational monies.

Randolph said the millage will be a special levy and not included in the regular educational millage.

Chancery Court Clerk J.D. (Big John) Rutherford said the increase will affect taxpayers in the municipalities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, but will not increase taxes in the county.

Randolph said the county is allocated $22,000 in federal funds for materials, but noted the $400 per month rent of the Silver Creek facility and classroom

Consumer sues utility

By RICH ADAMS

A Hancock County woman Wednesday filed a $10,000 suit against Coast Electric Company in Bay St. Louis, claiming she has been forced from her trailer after the power association cut off her electricity.

Toni Leas, Route 2, Box 686-R, Bay St. Louis, represented by Gulfport Attorney Richard V. Dymond, filed a "Bill of Complaint and Petition for Writ of Preliminary Injunction" in Hancock County Chancery Court Wednesday.

Leas claims Coast Electric discontinued service to her trailer on August 20, and she and her family have been forced to live in the Waveland Resort Inn since that time.

According to the suit, "...On August 20, 1979, Defendant herein discontinued service to the Complainant and based its decision for said discontinuance on the fact that an employee of the Defendant while determining the amount of electricity used during the preceding billing period, observed that the meter measuring the quantity of electricity consumed by the Complainant had been tampered with to the extent that it had been reversed or

"...Upon inquiry by the complainant, she was advised that in order to have service restored it would be necessary for her to pay a charge of $350," the legal action reads.

Leas contends that "...The Defendant arbitrarily and capriciously determined that $350 was the amount due and owing by the Complainant for the electricity used at her trailer," and, "That the Defendant has failed after repeated request to explain or justify its method of computation in determining the amount due and owing by the Complainant."

"As a result of the actions of the Defendant, your Complainant has been forced to relocate herself and her family to the Waveland Resort Inn located on Highway 90 in Waveland, Mississippi."

"That as a result of the necessity of taking residence at the Waveland Resort Inn, your Complainant is spending 20 days per month in a hotel and in addition there is a heavy tax on her family's restaurant which is placing extreme financial burden on the Complainant."

"No adequate remedy at law exists, and the Complainant will suffer irreparable injury if the Defendant continues to deprive her of electricity."

GCRL scientists discover traces of prehistoric man in Hancock

Salt marshes located in Hancock County along the Mississippi coast "were apparently utilized by prehistoric humans for a considerable length of time," according to two researchers at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory.

Drs. Lionel N. Eleuterius, botanist, and Ervin G. Otovos, Jr., geologist, jointly conducted a floristic and geological study of shell deposits or "kitchen middens" (refuse heaps).

Floristic surveys were made seasonally in 1974 and periodically in 1975, 1976 and 1977.

This information was combined with information from an ongoing, detailed geological study of the Mississippi coast, including core drilling in the marshland and radiocarbon dating of the middens.

The existence of many large shell mounds is evidence that early people, who periodically occupied coastal cultural sites, gathered shellfish from the local estuaries and marshes for food.

While the coastal environment has undergone much change in the intervening years, these Indians middens are "relatively enduring features," state titled "Floristic and Geologic Aspects of Indian Middens in Salt Marshes of Hancock County, Mississippi."

It was printed recently in the journal SIDA Contributions to Botany, published by Dr. William Mahler of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas.

Five middens in the tidal marsh east of Pearl River and south of Cadet Bayou were selected as study sites. These sites were unreported and undisturbed previous to their work.

Dr. Eleuterius reported collection of 62 species of flowering plants; the number of species depending on the elevation of the midden above the marsh surface and increasing as elevation increased.

The largest midden on Cedar Island with an elevation of 1 meter (about 3 feet) above the surface (1.3 m above mean low water) had the greatest number of species, 47.

Radiocarbon dating, Dr. Otovos pointed out, indicated that Rangia clam shells found on the surface of Cedar Island were more than 2,600 years old.

Shells of Rangia, a low-salinity, edible bivalve, almost exclusively formed the mounds, especially at Cedar Island.

Some of the other study sites contained lesser quantities of oyster shell and small shells.

The researchers believe most of the mounds "were formed during the Tchafunite and later cultural periods, characterized by pottery production."

"Each mound represents long periods of intermittent occupation and shell accumulation during seasons of food gathering activities. Due to subsidence, some middens may have been completely buried under surface (sediment) deposits."

This paper included the first report of the presence in Mississippi of a rare plant species included Sageretia muhlenbergii Moench (1901). Shell middens apparently provide the only habitat for this species, Eleuterius said.

Several of the plants found may have been cultivated in the area by prehistoric man who used them for various purposes: cedar bark produced fine tinder for fire making; coral bean seeds were possibly a source of pigment for paint and were used as "bead" ornaments; one ancestor of modern corn was found, etc.

Most of the plant species found were favored by the presence of the large amount of calcium contained in the shells. Some of the species are considered consistent and reliable indicators of such shell deposits.

"The presence of shell middens within the salt marsh ecosystem provides unique habitats for an unusual flora which increases the diversity of our estuaries," stated the authors.

Other relationships of the middens to the salt marsh remain unknown.

Winter seeks Democratic unity in victory speech

Editor's Note: Following is the victory statement issued by William Winter on the night of the Democratic primary runoff election Aug. 28 in which he defeated Lt. Gov. Evelyn Gandy for the Democratic party nomination for governor of Mississippi.

"It is impossible to express adequately tonight the gratitude which my family and I feel that we owe to you and the people of Mississippi. Your support, trust, and dedication have been overwhelming, and tonight you have won a great victory.

"First, let me say to my opponent, Evelyn Gandy - you have waged an honorable campaign which reflects the finest values of Mississippi. The personal esteem which I have always held for you has been enhanced in this election.

Your contribution to state government would be impossible to measure, and I am confident that it will continue in the years to come.

"Tonight I want to invite all Mississippians - and especially those who supported other candidates this summer to join with me in launching our general election campaign for the future of Mississippi.

"The clear measure of this Democratic primary in which nearly 700,000 Mississippians participated is that our people want a change from the past - and a commitment to the future. They want new ways to solve the old problems that have been neglected for too long, and they want a state government that will serve the people and make a difference for the better in their lives.

They want a bold new vision of a more hopeful and positive tomorrow.

"That is what my campaign for governor is all about. Leading Mississippi into the 1980's and solving the tough problems will take new ideas, but it will also take know-how. A novice cannot walk into the governor's office and know how to make government work and how to get Mississippi moving again.

New ideas and know-how - these are the themes of my campaign and will be the hallmark of my administration as governor.

"It is with humility and gratitude that I thank you again for this victory - a victory not for me personally, but for the future of our state. I look forward to celebrating with you and all the people of Mississippi another great victory on November 6th."

Hancock child, cousin drown in Pass Harbor

Pass Christian authorities remained at a loss for an explanation of why a 22-year-old Gulfport man drowned Saturday night while trying to rescue his 4-year-old cousin at the Pass Yacht club harbor.

The child, a resident of Standard Community in Hancock County, also drowned.

The double drowning occurred in seemingly calm waters, and authorities said they could not explain why Michael Dennis, a resident of 17-B O'Neal Road, was unable to get back to shore with the youngster, Randall Lamar McCloud. Authorities said the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCloud of Hancock County, fell into the water on the east side of the mouth of the harbor.

Witness told authorities that Dennis jumped in the water, grabbed hold of the boy and began swimming back to the nearest pier.

"He was on his way back to the pier, and for no apparent reason, they both went under," a spokesman for the Pass Christian Police said.

"Witnesses said the water was calm. There was no apparent cause."

The spokesman said, however, that underwater currents may have pulled them down. No further investigation was planned, and the deaths were listed as accidental.

The incident occurred at approximately 9:30 p.m. Saturday, and the bodies were recovered about an hour later.

Obituaries for Dennis and the McCloud child appear on this page.

MICHAEL DENNIS

The funeral for Michael William Dennis, 22, was conducted with the funeral for Randall Lamar McCloud, 4, Monday at the Riemann Funeral Home in Gulfport.

When the early settlers came to the Mississippi Gulf Coast so many years ago, they found the Indians already enjoying to the fullest the seafood delicacies of this gastronomic paradise—especially flounder, shrimp and crabs.

The Indian tribes—who fished the waters with their spears and arrows—taught the settlers the fine art of "floundering"—or fishing for flounders... and this is still great sport for us all along the Coast, as well as a tasty boon to the dinner table in these inflationary days.

On calm nights flounder-seekers can be seen just off shore, armed with lanterns and poles or spears of some sort, wading after the flounders lurking in the shallows.

Many cooks, me included, think flounder is best when broiled whole over a driftwood fire on the beach as soon as it's captured;—others prefer it stuffed; still others like fancy sauces.

When cooking whole flounder in my kitchen, I like to leave the tail on and score the skin, sprinkling salt and pepper into the slits as well as over the fish.

I like to cover it with thinner-than-thin slices of lemon, splash melted butter over and broil barely a few minutes or more, depending on size.

The chief rule to remember in cooking flounder, as in any other fish, is to avoid overcooking which destroys the texture.

A favorite at our house is: BAKED FLOUNDER, CRAB STUFFED

To serve four, slit pockets in four flounders and spoon in a generous amount of stuffing. Melt half a stick of butter or margarine in a pan, lay the fish at ease atop the butter, dark side down, then flip over to finish, so as to butter the dark side, too, while baking at 375 degrees, uncovered, half an hour.

(P.S. Time depends on your stove and you, of course.)

CRAB STUFFING

1 cup crabmeat
1 cup bread crumbs
1 egg, beaten
2 Tbsp. bacon drippings
One onion, on shallot or green onion
2 garlic cloves, minced
2 Tbsp. celery, green onions chopped

Dashes—that means less than a teaspoon of salt, pepper, thyme and parsley.
Heat bacon drippings—or oil—and in it saute on not too high a fire, the seasonings.

Into this beat the egg and bread crumbs and crabmeat, spoon into the slits you've made in the fish—and into the oven with it.

Pickering to sue for open primary

Republican attorney general candidate Charles Pickering said last week the August 26 Democratic runoff once again demonstrates the need for an open primary. "Many Mississippians who voted in the Republican and Democratic primaries were denied the right to vote for the candidate of their choice without regard to party affiliation," said Pickering who easily beat Toxey Hall Smith August 7.

State law prohibits voters to cast ballots in both party primaries. The open primaries would replace party primaries with a preferential primary. The top two vote-getters in the preferential primary would then face each other in a runoff.

"As attorney general, I will file suit in federal court in an effort to get the open primary approved," the two time Laurel state senator said.

"Because the open primary is a just proposal and will allow more people to get involved in government, I'm certain I can have the proposal sanctioned through the court system," Pickering said.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 requires federal approval of such a change in the electoral process.

Editorial

Will we wait until it is too late!

In recent years, we as a nation have become more aware of the need to protect our environment.

We have in our own area, read reports about certain subdivisions being closed down until they met certain standards in the matters of waste disposal.

Many folks have fought and are still fighting our new industrial growth with the theme of environmental protection, yet many individuals are violating all types of laws everyday right here in Hancock County.

We have received recent letters from our readers putting emphasis on these violations.

We can not understand how subdivisions can be closed down for environmental violations and individuals can still continue polluting our canals, bayous, rivers and bay.

These folks who are the biggest violators will probably sit back and blame the pollution of the Bay on the big industry when in reality they themselves will do most of the damage.

We all must remember one thing, big industry has the eyes of Uncle Sam watching their every move, and several other groups.

There are several subdivisions in our area which got 'under the wire' and didn't have to comply with the now-strict regulations.

Violations are all over the County, and adjoining county. Just recently we had the owner of a new home, built on stilts as the law requires, show us a photo of a trailer near his residence with its sewage discharge running directly into a drainage ditch which runs into a bayou.

Another reader wrote to us about one person having swine fence on three sides on the edge of a canal, and we could go on and on.

If subdivisions can be stopped for pollution violations, why cannot individuals be stopped the same way.

The thing which really makes us wonder is who is to blame for allowing these violations to continue without lifting a finger.

Will they continue until we have no clean water left for recreation, when all of our waters become one big waste area?

If industry violates pollution regulations they should be cited and we feel that if individuals violate regulations they should also be cited.

Bits 'n pieces

The Labor Day holiday was over on Tuesday. We took a drive down Beach Boulevard and saw District Four, City of Waveland and Buccaneer personnel picking up the litter very early in the morning.

The folks picking up garbage had a big day in both Waveland and Bay St. Louis as it seemed that every residence had about double of what they usually put out.

We think the people responsible for keeping our community clean should be commended on their efforts on getting the job done soon.

Bay St. Louis resident Nelius Favre has a need which some of us may be able to help him. He recently had a leg amputated in New Orleans at Ochsner's Foundation Hospital and has to replace 22 pints of blood used by him with 44 pints.

Favre has been sick on and off for sometime and it would be nice if some of you in the vicinity of Ochsner's would drop in anytime and donate a pint of blood.

All you have to do is mention his name and he will get credit for the replacement. No appointment is necessary.

Hurry and get well Nelius.

Labor Day didn't bring as many folks over as usual most people report, but we know for one thing it sure brought out a lot of fishermen.

It has been a long time since we saw so many boats out of LaFrance's Fishing Camp as there were Saturday.

Don't ask how we fared; it wasn't good, should have cooked the bait.

Waveland bird authority Brewster Mollere reports the bird we called a pelican was a gannet or blue faced booby. Mollere said they are very rarely seen on land as they usually stay out

'GARBAGE DUMP' TO GO! - This was the unsightly mess at the foot of the Bay St. Louis Bridge the day after Labor Day. Tuesday night the Bay Council, at the request of Mayor Larry Bennett, voted for the removal of the dumpsters at this location because of abuse by the public. We have to agree on the action taken. As we were taking this photo, passers-by on the Highway seemed to be amazed at the garbage heap topped off by a lawn mower on one dumpster. Some people were so lazy they didn't even come close to the dumpsters; just dropped the garbage in the middle of the service road.

LABOR DAY AFTERMATH - Residents of the Cedar Point area have expressed concern about this dumpster at the corner of Dunbar Avenue and North Beach Boulevard. When the unit was placed at the intersection, we are told, it was to be emptied twice a week. The use has been so heavy it now has to be emptied six or seven times a week. The Bay Council may consider the same action for this area as it did by the bridge. Residents of Bay St. Louis receive garbage pickup twice a week and we feel that should be sufficient.

to sea. Nesting usually is on very remote islands. Guess we will have to get a subscription to the Bird Watchers Society for our bird editor.

We want to extend our congratulations to Debbie Anselmo for being selected the County's 'Outstanding Citizen for 1979,' by the American Legion Post 77 of Waveland.

Ms. Anselmo put much effort into the formation of the Therapy Swimming Program for the handicapped persons. All reports we have received tell us the Swimming Program was a big success.

We at this time want to also thank all the governmental agencies, businesses and individuals who helped make the program a success in the first year of operation.

The Bay High Tigers will be traveling to Wiggins Friday night to do battle with the Stone County Tomcats.

We wish the Tigers well under the direction of Coach Snuffy Smith. It would be nice for a large group of Tiger fans show their support by attending the game.

The Pass Christian Pirates and Hancock North Central Hawks did battle in a defensive struggle last Friday night. The Pirates edged the Hawks 12-0 in the hard fought game.

The Pirates will visit Vandeave Friday night seeking their second victory.

The Hawks will journey to Our Lady of Victories Saturday night, with Coach Irvin Favre trying to get his super Hawks on the winning side again.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws will again be idle this week with a visit planned at Pearl River next weekend.

We wish the Tigers, Hawks and Pirates victories this weekend.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL - THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The operation of four different types of school districts in Mississippi has resulted in significant variances in the quality of education offered to the state's youngsters.

And Mississippi Economic Council President Ben C. Cain has urged legislative action to consider the consolidation of school districts. Cain said that the current system of four types of school districts is "inefficient and wasteful" and that a single type of district would be more economical and would provide a more uniform quality of education.

separate, and special municipal separate, operate under different laws governing school finance, selection of superintendents, and even selection of board members, said Cain. "Which one of these factors is important to an efficient operation of a quality education?"

Cain pointed out that differences in financing have led to disparities in the quality of education in some school districts and that a single type of district would be more economical and would provide a more uniform quality of education.

percentages of local financial support. "Also important," said Cain, "are methods of selection of school superintendents. The quality of administration in a district can be affected through conflict in direction between superintendents and board members."

Cain recommends a single school district form in the state with a uniform administrative and financial system. And districts should have fiscal independence.

Cain believes that the best administrative combination would be a competent, professional administrator appointed by and operating under a qualified lay board of education," said Cain.

"This way it can provide greater service and leadership than an elected board," an elected board tends to follow the lead of the voters and to make decisions on a whim.

While Cain's recommendations were being discussed, the state legislature was considering a bill to create a new type of school district. The bill would create a new type of district that would be more economical and would provide a more uniform quality of education.

Blames Committee for improper balloting

TO: the chairman Hancock County Democratic Committee.

Dear Sir;

I wish to take this opportunity to express to you my sentiments on the appalling and totally unacceptable way the Edwardsville voting Box was handled in the latest voting, last Tuesday, August 28.

I suggest that if the officer's and members of the committee cannot implement and have a simple direction carried out of how to work a ballot, either with pen or pencil, they should either resign or be replaced, by a conscientious person, who has the interest of the community and voters at heart, more than was demonstrated by this committee during the last election. I personally took the time and effort to vote and therefore are very angry and aggravated to have my ballot nullified by incompetent management or indifferent pollworkers.

As are many other things in local government, the person responsible to the committee for voting procedures legalities for such, was very efficient in pick-up as quick as he did, that source of the voting ballots were marked with pencil.

I wonder if they gave the individual poll workers such detailed instructions concerning pen or pencils prior to voting day?

J.P. Kennedy
A Edwardsville Voter.

Environmentalists oppose Carter plan

Washington, D.C.
August 22, 1979

MEMO TO EDITORS:

It has been one month since President Carter, spurred by long lines of angry motorists at gas stations, rushed his "crash" energy program to Congress.

During that time, millions of words have been written about his "energy mobilization" while relatively little space has been devoted to critical analysis of his $142 billion plan.

The undersigned organizations oppose the Carter plan on a number of grounds. First, it virtually ignores the cheapest and quickest way to produce more energy in the U.S. - conservation.

Second, it proposes instead an enormous investment of public funds in the unproven technology of "synfuels," one of the most inflationary and environmentally-damaging of all possible solutions to our energy problem.

Third, in the guise of "cutting red tape," it would wipe out many environmental gains of the past decade and undermine our Constitutional right to due process of law.

It is questionable whether the new bureaucracies it would create would be accountable to Congress or the Courts.

We are convinced that if there is a full and fair discussion of the Carter plan in the American press, then Congress, when it reconvenes next month, will reject the Administration's proposal and adopt a program that produces more energy with less damage to our environment, our economy and our laws.

The undersigned conservation and environmental groups will present alternative proposals to Congress when it reconvenes. Environmental Action, Environmental Defense Fund, Environmental Policy Center, Friends of the Earth, National Wildlife Federation, Natural Resources Defense Council, Sierra Club, Wilderness Society.

CARROLL AVENUE - The 200 block of Carroll Avenue in Bay St. Louis Sunday resembled a traffic artery of Old Venice where a gondola is the best way to get around, or in this case maybe a pirogue. Sunday's downpour proved to be more than the area's drainage system could handle.

IRAN TO RESELL HEATING OIL

Disturbing new reports have surfaced now that not only has President Carter sold American-refined heating oil to Iran for a bargain price, but Iran may resell it at a tremendous profit.

The possibility was raised last week when the head of the National Iranian Oil Company told his country that construction of a major Iranian refinery may remove the need for the heating oil the President agreed to sell them.

When the sale was announced, the President sought to justify it for "humanitarian" reasons, even though Americans, particularly in the Northeast, face potential winter shortages. When the $47 million sale was first disclosed, I called it absolutely absurd. I said it was another example of the misguided energy policies that have put the U.S. in the position it's in today. In the wake of these new disclosures, the decision to sell heating oil and kerosene to Iran is even more ridiculous. How long will the administration continue to put the interests of other countries ahead of our own?

At least two House committees expressed interest in investigating the sale of these American-refined petroleum products to Iran. I would like to see them get to the bottom of the deal and how the Congress has remained so dumb and asleep. I hope they move quickly.

While the President was trying to justify the sale, I was trying to get the House to pass a resolution to stop the sale. I am still trying to get the House to pass a resolution to stop the sale.

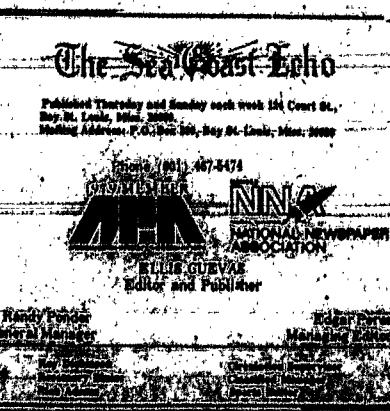

coral reef off the East Coast that could contain two billion to 15 billion barrels of oil.

The reports said the reef structure is similar to that of the newly-discovered oil fields off Mexico, and runs from Florida to Canada more than 100 miles offshore.

While the oil-bearing potential is not yet fully known, the early indications are that it could be as large as Prudhoe Bay, the 10 billion barrel field discovered on Alaska's North Slope in 1968.

To get to the oil, though, will require major technical advances. The formation lies in 6,000 feet of water and beneath another 4,000 feet of sediment; the oil industry's deepest ocean drilling has been in less than 5,000 feet of water.

While heavy investment would be required, the reports indicate that the reef holds the potential for helping to increase our domestic petroleum production. With the world-wide energy situation like it is, the U.S. cannot afford to let domestic production slip any further.

Update On Diabetes

Perhaps as many as one in twenty Americans is a diabetic. This disease of the pancreas can be life threatening if not medically treated promptly and continuously throughout the patient's lifetime.

If you have not had a diabetic in your immediate family, you may not know something else: The person who has diabetes is more likely to be a victim of heart disease and strokes than the average American. However, these complications are less likely to appear in diabetics in some other nations, Japan, for example. Researchers feel that this difference may be related to lifestyle and diet.

Additionally many Americans have a problem with overweight. Particularly as people get older, overweight may go along with a tendency toward diabetes and the need to start following a prudent diet.

In old-time diabetic diets every kind of carbohydrate - including fruits and even vegetables - were eliminated. After the discovery of insulin, the diabetic diet became easier to follow: no sugars or sweets, moderate amounts of starchy foods, and emphasis on high-protein foods.

Even these recommendations have been changed recently as a result of concern over the premature appearance of blood vessel damage affecting the eyes and hearts of diabetics. Nutritionists pointed out that the high-protein diabetic diet was also high in fat. By eating more fatty meats, eggs and cheese instead of sweets, the diabetic was also increasing his intake of saturated fat and cholesterol. Perhaps, it was reasoned, this was linked to the blood vessel damage and increased rate of heart disease in diabetics.

Today, the dietary focus has shifted. Although free sugars (cane sugar, honey, etc.) are still eliminated or restricted, complex carbohydrates - like starches - can be allowed, up to 50% or 55% of total calories. To the diabetic, this means moderate amounts of whole grain breads and cereals, rice, pasta and "starchy" vegetables like corn, potatoes and peas can be eaten. These provide nutrients as well as considerable fiber.

In addition, the "Prudent Diet" approach to fats is suggested. Restrict total fat calories to about 35% of total calories - generally, this means some reduction.

Use less saturated fat such as meat fats and butter, and a higher proportion of polyunsaturated fat like Mazola corn oil.

Limit high-cholesterol foods like eggs and organ meats.

Select lower fat types of animal protein foods: dairy products, cheeses, meats, poultry, fish.

Besides these dietary recommendations, the National Institutes of Health suggest that the diabetic (as each of us) should conquer overweight, exercise regularly, control high blood pressure and stop smoking. Summed up, a healthy lifestyle that's good for you whether or not you have diabetes.

For a guide to the "Prudent Diet," send for Mazola's booklet, "Diet For Today," Dept. DT-GN, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

LEGAL BRIEFS

Jury Duty Is A Citizen's Responsibility

By Michael F. Colley
President
Association of Trial Lawyers of America

As U.S. citizens, we are likely to have only two opportunities to take a direct part in the process of our government. One is when we elect public officials to the administrative, legislative and judicial branches of local, state or national government.

The other is when we are personally called upon for jury duty to shield or protect our fellow Americans from possible judicial or administrative injustice in the courts.

Each year the U.S. court system calls upon at least a million American citizens to serve as jurors on some 200,000 juries. Just about anyone can be called to serve as a juror.

But there are some general qualifications.

In most states, you must be an American citizen, a local resident, at least 21 years of age, have good character, ordinary intelligence, and be able to read, write and understand the English language.

The assembly of a jury panel is normally carried out by a jury commissioner who selects names from a variety of sources such as voter registration rolls, census records, property and tax rolls, vehicle registration records and even city-telephone directories.

After a person has qualified as a juror, their name is then placed in a general ballot box from which all trial jurors are drawn as they are needed.

Drawing names for jury duty must be done publicly, as it is the law. After the desired number of names have been drawn, each juror is served a notice specifying the time and place where he or she is required to appear. This is not a request that can be ignored. It is a legal summons and must be obeyed.

But jury duty doesn't take forever. Usually, a jury duty call runs from five days to three weeks, unless you become involved in a lengthy criminal trial or if you are on a grand jury.

Pay for jury duty ranges from a low of $3 a day in Colorado to a high of $16 a day in Massachusetts.

Being summoned for jury duty and its impending responsibility is an honor, and you should not regard it as an unwanted intrusion into your personal life. It recognizes that you are a U.S. citizen and a resident in good standing of your community.

It also means that you will have an opportunity to play an active part in our democratic form of government and see that justice is done in our court system.

A message from Gil

I remember as a child walking to school. Our classes were small, the discipline strict. We learned the basic three R's and school was a vital part of our lives.

Today we spend more money on our schools than ever before. But something seems to be wrong. Our children aren't learning what we want them to.

I have a plan which I believe can restore vitality to our schools. It calls for greater family involvement and for elementary schools in our neighborhoods and small communities. It calls for a true apprenticeship program, a reading program that works, and more money actually going into the classrooms where the students are.

Our children deserve the best, let's make sure they get it.

This time...

pudding Fondues for Indian Summer Picnic

Next time you hike, bike or drive through the country to watch the leaves change, bring along a new snack. A movable feast like pudding fondue is easy to prepare and light enough to carry on your back or in a small basket. Make a quick stop at the supermarket dairy case before you go. There you'll find an assortment of creamy Swiss Miss refrigerated puddings in portable, individual containers. Then move on to the produce counter and choose a selection of fruit for dunking in the pudding. Some combinations to try are strawberries in vanilla; peaches in chocolate; apples and pears in dark chocolate; and a real winner, bananas in butterscotch.

So the next time you're enjoying Indian summer, bring along a pudding fondue. And with what's left over from your picnic, try one of the following:

LEMON FREEZE PIE
1 cup (4 oz.) Swiss Miss Refrigerated Vanilla Pudding
1/2 cup frozen concentrated lemonade
1/2 cup frozen concentrated orange juice
Whipped cream
Mint leaves

Combine pudding and lemonade in a bowl. Stir in orange juice. Chill. Garnish with whipped cream and mint leaves. Refrigerate until serving.

PEPPERMINT MOODSHEE
1 cup (4 oz.) Swiss Miss Refrigerated Chocolate Pudding
1/2 cup frozen concentrated peppermint schnapps
Whipped cream

Combine pudding and schnapps in a bowl. Stir in peppermint schnapps. Chill. Garnish with whipped cream. Refrigerate until serving.

News from the Church of St. Ann

A though for the day from the library of Father Canisius Hayes, pastor, St. Ann's Parish.

Your feet may not run as fast as your mind, but take consolation in the fact that there are many people much younger whose minds can't keep up with their feet.

According to Sister Mary Cornelia, religious coordinator for St. Ann and St. John's Parishes, religious education classes will begin Tuesday, September 11, for grades first through fourth and Thursday, September 13, for grades fifth through eighth in parish hall immediately after school.

Council studying fire truck bids

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis Council took under advisement two bids received for a new fire truck.

The two firms bidding were Mossa Equipment Company, Eunice, La., and Southern Fire Equipment Co., Inc., Jackson.

Both firms proposed using Mack trucks. Mossa submitted two prices for different model trucks with 1,250-gallon-per minute pumpers—one at $67,600 and the other, $66,265.

Southern Fire submitted a bid for a 1,500-gallon-per minute pumper at $80,315 and a second price of $69,767 using the city's 1974 Ford truck as a trade-in.

Delivery time was estimated for December or January by Mossa and Southern Fire. Equipment gave approximately ten days after receipt of chassis.

Council also opened three bids on use of city equipment with furnished labor on an hourly basis for repair of sewer cave-ins.

Previous bids had expired so the Council had to advertise again for another six months.

The firms bidding were Coast Heavy Equipment Company, Pass Christian; Show Supply Company, Perkinston; and Crown Equipment Company, Bay St. Louis.

A public hearing was set Oct. 27, p.m. for property clean-up on three parcels in Bay St. Louis.

The three property owners are S.F. Von Ehren property located on Hancock Street; Irma Levens property located corner Old Spanish Trail and Washington; and Charlotte Rosenberg Estate, next to 333 St. George Street.

Dr. Michael Smith, president of Advanced Developments, Inc. (ADI) engineering firm Bay St. Louis offered proposals on engineering fees and estimates on repainting and sand blasting the city's two water towers.

Smith estimated to cost as between $10,000 to $13,000 per tank and recommended testing services by an independent laboratory at a cost estimate of approximately $400.

Engineering fee would be $1,800 per tank for all engineering services to prepare plans and specifications and inspection, or a lump sum of $2,700 for both tanks, if under one contract.

ADI's president also submitted a proposal for a ten foot security fence around each water tank at an estimated cost of $1,200 to $1,500 each tank.

All engineering services and inspection under one contract was given at $750 for both fences or $525 each was offered by the engineering firm.

Council took the proposals under advisement.

A utility survey proposal for 1979 was also requested from ADI. Dr. Smith's firm is in the process of finishing a report on the utility system for 1978.

A lengthy discussion was held about making a key valve survey of the city water, gas and sewer systems.

The survey would involve marking on maps the numerous turn off valves throughout the systems which would be available to the city in case of an emergency.

Dr. Smith was asked to make a proposal on the survey.

On the Leonard Street well, Dr. Smith reported the contractor would start in two weeks and the job shouldn't take but about two weeks to complete.

Jimmy Chiniche was asked to appear before the council to submit a proposal for the analyzing of the gas system as to what the city crews could or could not do.

Council showed concern over the 16 percent loss due to leaks and feels the city could with the help of an engineer and a certified welder perform some of the repairs on the city lines.

Chiniche said he would consult with Bill Johnson and Mayor Larry Bennett and make a proposal to the council.

Two public hearing dates were set by the council for the 1980 Small Cities Project at the recommendation of Ronnie Murray, representative for the Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

Council also set a public hearing in conjunction with the planning and Zoning Commission on the new map of the City Zoning for 7:30 p.m., October 18.

Gulf Regional prepared the new map of the City zoning and it is now on display in the Council's Chambers.

Mayor Bennett reminded the Council that the City would enforce the ordinance on trash pick-up. The mayor said, "We do not have the equipment to continue doing the work the way we have been in the past."

"Today I saw two places in town which would take at least one truck load per stop, and when we pick up those it causes a delay in following our regular schedule," the mayor continued.

Council president Pete Benvenuti replied, "If I get it right, Gulf Coast Waste will pick up the trash that is properly bundled as long as it is a couple bundles at a time."

Mayor Bennett requested the removal of a dumpster at the foot of the Bay bridge because of abuse by the public and was supported unanimously by the Council.

In other business, Council was unanimous in requesting the City Clerk to notify the building inspector not to release a building permit if requested to the lot adjacent to the duplex constructed in violation of city zoning ordinances on Boardman Avenue. Joseph Gex, board attorney, was requested to proceed with a covenant restricting any structure ever being built on the adjacent lot.

In a 4 to 1 vote, council rejected a request made months ago by resident Cornelius Ladner to purchase adjacent city right-of-way to his land. Council member James Thriffliey voted against the motion.

In relation to rejecting Ladner's request, Council asked engineer Jimmy Chiniche for a proposal on a survey on the property at the corner of State and Nacale to see if the fence is on the city right-of-way.

Council was unanimous in rejecting a claim by Dennis Reott resulting from an auto accident which had been taken under advisement at an earlier meeting.

A discussion was held about why should Bay St. Louis provide space and also pay utilities for the State Employment Service when both Hancock County and Waveland also receive benefits from the office.

Council agreed with Fred Wagner in wanting to see a copy of the written agreement stating, "I realize Bay St. Louis as well as Waveland and the County all receive benefits from the service."

This action was taken as the Council reviewed the docket.

During the checking of the docket, council decided to further study the possibility of the clerk not signing any checks until approved by the council.

Harry Farve voted against the study saying, "There are some checks which will have to be written and we are not here all the time."

Bay, Pearl River Scout Troops to join Special Forces maneuvers at Camp Shelby

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Members of Boy Scout Troops 208 and 384 of Bay St. Louis and 219 of Pearl River are in for something new this weekend.

Major Henry Cook, Bay St. Louis, commander of the Mississippi National Guard Special Forces headquartered in Hattiesburg, reports the local Boy Scouts will assist the Special Force Troop in a parachute drop at Camp

Shelby this weekend.

The Scouts will help by marking drop zones for the paratroopers, help them get out of gear and by giving directions.

Major Cook's unit, Company A, 2nd Battalion, 20th Special Forces (Airborne) is manned by reservists from Mississippi and Louisiana.

There is another special forces unit headquartered in Columbus, Miss.

"The Scouts will learn a lot by paricipating in these maneuvers, and we are trying to make scouting more interesting for the youth of today," Cook stated.

"It was a Scout and I want to help better the programs in our area. Scouts will learn how to use compass, maps and rappelling," the major continued.

Major Cook, a former member of the famous Green Berets, served two times in Vietnam, each time as a Special Forces commander.

The major's group trains one weekend each month. The unit is open for young men who qualify in the National Guard's Special Forces.

Other adventures are planned for the local Scouts, according to Major Cook.

"We can help Scouting by making their activities interesting and they can help our Special Forces by aiding us in our training," the company Commander said.

materials will cost at least $75,000 this year.

Board President A. A. (Dolph) Kellar said since the money would come from a special millage, public hearings would be necessary.

"If 20 percent of qualified electors petitioned the board, the issue would be placed before the people in a special election," Kellar said.

Randolph, who had originally requested only that the board investigate the possibility of the millage, exclaimed, "I am not here to upset anybody...I just want the issue investigated."

Courage asked Randolph what effect the proposed handicapped center will have on construction of a south end high school if a bond issue should pass.

"Randolph said the facility will not effect that project if the special millage is approved."

Randolph then said the present attendance center at Hancock North Central is 59 classrooms short and added, "We may ask for a new bond issue election very soon, and with the help of politicians who publicly support this, perhaps we can show the public what we really need instead of just sitting back and not letting people know anything."

Peterson then chided, "I would like to know why you don't recommend a high school in Lakeshore or Pearlington."

"You said you were against a bond issue," Randolph shot back.

"I never said that," responded Peterson. "Ask anyone and they will tell you I never said that."

"Why don't you build the school in Lakeshore or Pearlington," Peterson emphasized.

Randolph explained a facility which contains an elementary and high school needs to be built on a 20 acre tract, in addition to 1 acre per 100 students.

"We would need 26 acres to meet accreditation standards, and at Lakeshore and Pearlington schools we are 10 acres short," the superintendent replied.

"That is just your excuse," Peterson snapped.

Randolph explained a proposed south end school will be constructed on land obtained in a swap and will not cost any money, where land across from Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore would cost school district funds.

Kellar interrupted and suggested the meeting move on, promising to investigate the matter of the additional millage as requested.

Carmichael

"I want them to know that in Carmichael's state they'll be put to sleep early if they commit a pre-meditated crime like those."

The Meridian businessman said he does not like plea bargaining, and will support the creation of programs that will make the criminal reimburse the victim.

Carmichael said he plans in his first year as governor to try to solve transportation and energy problems; the second year institute education programs; and the third to work on tax reform.

Commenting on his opposition, Carmichael said the basic difference between him and Democrat William Winter is the same difference that exists between the national Republican and Democratic Parties.

"The national Republican Party gets government to solve problems, whereas the Democratic Party believes government should help local people solve their own problems," he said.

"It's a philosophical difference," the candidate added.

"It's going to be a tough fight between Winter and me, so be prepared for a tough campaign," he told his supporters.

Local officials gathered to hear Carmichael included Waveland Alderman Barbara Rappold, Carmichael's Hancock County Finance Chairman Lynn McGeehee, County Campaign Chairman James Rester, Hancock Port and Harbor Commissioner Fred Curet and Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board Member Betty Diboll.

Viet Refugees

"It looks like we may end up with the bulk of these people in Hancock County," he added.

"We have to stop this before it gets started, the water out there is already boiling," Bernos said.

Bernos said he has shrimped on the entire Gulf Coast into Texas, and told the board he has had prior clashes with the refugees.

"In the past, I have worked at night. Once I counted 43 boats, and only 11 were local residents, the rest had drifted over from Harrison County," Bernos said.

"Fishermen receive the lowest income in the state. We are now at the bottom of the totem pole. The added Vietnamese will do nothing for the fishermen or the work availability," he continued.

"Some lady senator went to Vietnam and said we will save them all. All of them are political instigators, and we will have to put up with them now. We will eventually have to accept some, but we don't have to accept that large a number of them now," he added.

District One Supervisor Bert Courage agreed with Bernos, and said he understands the refugees are not subject to fines if caught in violation of fishing or shrimping regulations.

Bernos said from a "first-hand incident" the foreigners are protected from prosecution.

"A Vietnamese was provided a federal attorney and the man was protected. In the end, the American fisherman was being prosecuted," Bernos told the board.

Tommy Holzhauser, another fisherman, said he has a gun on his shrimp boat to protect him from the refugees.

"I was almost hit by one boat which had no running lights, and I put pressure on it. Twenty minutes later, four of the boats were bearing down on me. I now have a gun on board," Holzhauser said.

The fishermen accused the Vietnamese of not respecting international law, a similar complaint publicized in Texas which resulted in violence between the local fishermen and the refugees.

Courage made a motion that the board contact field representatives for Congressman Trent Lott and Senator Thad Cochran, requesting them to attend a Gulf Coast Fishermen's Association meeting Friday at 5:30 p.m. at the Biloxi Courthouse.

The motion was seconded by District Five Supervisor James Travica and unanimously approved by the board.

A spokesman for Coast Electric said Manager Henry Thomas was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Let's End the Corrupting Influence of PACs

by DAVID COHEN

Once Congress' summer recess ends, the House can do something constructive about reducing the influence of the new breed of campaign contributor - political action committees of corporations, unions and countless other pressure groups. Commonly known as PACs, their growth has been unparalleled.

Political action committees have increased in number from fewer than 600 in 1975 to over 1900 in 1979. Corporate committees have increased from 89 to over 900 in the same period. Political action committees gave $12 million in 1974 to congressional candidates. In 1978, the figure rose to more than $85 million. Incumbents outspent challengers by a ratio of more than two to one; but received at least three times as much as their challengers in special interest group contributions.

We have barely seen the beginning of how PAC dollars talk in Congress. For example, energy-related PACs in 1974 numbered 12; in 1978 the number of committees had increased to 110. The National Automobile Dealers Association increased its donations to House and Senate candidates from $14,000 in 1974 to almost $1 million in 1978; and the contributions from the National Association of Realtors increased from $25,000 to $1.1 million in the same four year period. That is just the tip of the iceberg. Roy Paquette, the director of the Realtors PAC, predicts a dramatic increase in the committee's giving.

"Our potential is unlimited," said Paquette. "The growth of PACs is the evidence they do not exist in Congressional campaigns because they are ineffective." As Justin Dart, Chairman of the National Association of the Deaf, said, "The growth of PACs is the evidence they do not exist in Congressional campaigns because they are ineffective."

PAC contributions are not subject to the same disclosure requirements as campaign contributions. They are not subject to the same limits as campaign contributions. They are not subject to the same disclosure requirements as campaign contributions.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I'm thinking about promoting sales in my store on the basis of "low overhead, lower prices." I'll offer limited lines, no frills or expensive displays and no advertising. Tightening Up.

Dear TU: You probably will need to get used to tightening up quite a bit, for the odds are very much against you.

In the first place, if you have no displays and no advertisements who'll know about you being in business?

And word of mouth won't spread very far if you have limited lines and few frills. For in today's marketplace consumers want frills and variety.

The merchants who get the business are those who offer complete lines and frills. You're setting yourself for a very low price level. In an inflationary market you might be able to hang onto enough business to stay open, but your operation would be very vulnerable to an aggressive competitor.

necessarily expensive, especially if one of the low budget items is a less than choice location. And with an impending fuel shortage, who knows what a choice location will be in the future. Convenience to drivers may give way to "driving walking distance."

But either selling-point will have to be supplied with regular advertising.

So you might save a little cash to pay for a going out of business sale, if you don't plan to promote regularly.

One question that has always intrigued me is why anyone who thinks he wants to be in business would have your attitude towards advertising.

My theory is that you really want to run a business, but you're afraid to try. You're afraid to try, or a customer who wastes his money on your goods is doing something else.

PAPAYA, MANGOES, AND KIWI

Americans are exhibiting a steadily increasing fondness for fruits from far away places. So much so that some items, such as Papaya and Pineapple, have become standard items in most produce departments.

Others, like Kiwi and Mangoes, are not so well known. It is fun to try new fruits, but it also takes some "know-how" to select and use these less familiar fruits.

The Papaya, or "tree melon," is a tropical fruit highly popular in all parts of the tropical world.

It has been a staple food in Asia and Africa. Although botanically the Papaya is related to the melon family, it is harvested from hollow-trunked trees.

Papaya is a very nutritious fruit, being extremely high in Vitamins A and C and comparatively low in calories.

The mature fruit is harvested when it is green, with only a slight amount of yellow showing. By the time it reaches our market, it is usually still firm and partly yellow.

Don't hesitate to buy Papaya at this stage. It will ripen fully in a day or two at room temperature. When it is ripe for eating, the skin may be anywhere from two-thirds greenish yellow to fully golden yellow.

For a more accurate test, place the fruit in the palm of your hands; it is ripe when it will yield to gentle pressure. As soon as it reaches this point store it in the refrigerator and eat it as soon as possible. It will keep, refrigerated, for about a week.

Most people seem to like Papaya the first time they try it. However, the subtle flavor becomes more pronounced and enjoyable each time you taste it.

The usual way to eat Papaya is simply to cut the fruit in half, remove the seed, sprinkle with a little fresh lime or lemon and serve as a breakfast fruit or dessert. Lemon or lime over the cut fruit emphasizes the flavor.

Mangoes require a warm humid climate and Florida is about the only place in the United States in which they flourish.

They are also shipped in from Mexico and Hawaii. Mangoes vary in size and shape. Some are oval and rather flat and others are nearly round, depending upon the variety and the area in which they are grown.

Buy Mangoes that are rather firm and keep at room temperature until the fruit yields easily to gentle pressure.

The outer skin may look somewhat speckled by the time the fruit is ripe. It is very important that Mangoes be fully ripe before serving. An underripe Mango has a very disappointing flavor and texture.

A ripe Mango peels quite easily. Start peeling from the end of the fruit.

The Mango seed is long and flat and the meat clings to the seed and must be cut away.

A good way to do this is to put the peeled Mango on a plate, hold it down with a fork, and slice the fruit away from the seed. You can eat the fruit as is - or slice or dice it for salads and desserts.

Kiwi fruit is a relative newcomer to the United States. It is originally from New Zealand although some are now being grown in California. In its native land it was commonly known as the Chinese gooseberry.

Kiwi has a rather homely exterior. It is egg shaped with a fuzzy brown surface.

However, after the fuzzy surface is brushed off and the fruit peeled you will find a beautiful green color and a flavor that is both sweet and unusual.

Kiwi should be at least as soft as a ripe pear for best eating. If the fruit is very firm on the produce stand, ripen it at room temperature until soft and then refrigerate.

You may be able to buy some soft ones and also some firmer ones to use later.

Be sure fruit is well chilled before peeling. Rub off fuzzy part of skin and peel. It is most attractive when sliced cross-wise. Its lime-green flesh is ringed in the center with an interesting pattern of tiny, crunchy, edible black seeds.

Sliced Kiwi is a lovely garnish for fruit salads, pies, puddings, chicken or seafood salad. It can be eaten plain or with a squeeze of fresh lime or lemon juice. It is an attractive and interesting addition to fruit salads.

AG-FORESTRY MUSEUM POTENTIAL

At present there are some 4.2 billion people in the world increasing at the rate of 70 million annually or 192,000 daily. Although world population growth has begun to slow down, the statistical trend is such that it will be awhile before an anticipated halt.

Already the existing population has begun to put unachievable demands on the productive capacity of many agricultural and forestry systems as - and both the agricultural and forestry sciences will be challenged to levels of achievement not yet on the drawing boards.

Mississippi appears, from a renewable resource standpoint, to be positioned in the center of much future development which has a significant bearing on the importance of the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Museum recently begun in this state.

While the word "museum" may often connote a storage and display facility for old things, Mississippi's developing museum is planned to be more than a dam preventing the receding away of countless physical objects and methods of the past, but rather a channel through which this state's newest agricultural and forestry products may be promoted by the millions of visitors to the Jackson site or persons out in the state, nation, and world that will be reached by mobile programs.

For years now this museum has been in the planning stage, utilizing some of the most competent consultants to be found in the nation. A committee of state historians put their heads together to determine the best way to present the stories of past, present and future development of this state's resources. Ground recently was broken on a spacious site along Jackson's Interstate complex for the main exhibit building, and this fall will see a statewide drive begin for funds that will be needed to supplement a legislative appropriation to insure that the museum realizes its vast potential.

In concept the museum, through the latest techniques of exhibition and audiovisuals, will lead visitors through past development in three stages - those afforded by the river system first, then the railways, and lastly the roads and highways.

The collection of artifacts, machinery, and buildings representing these periods was initiated a number of years ago by the state's department of agriculture and commerce, and much of this collection will be used in both the static and changing exhibits.

Currently the museum specialists are scrutinizing the state for authentic buildings that best represent the main components of our rural villages of the past. The separate actual buildings - such as a country store, blacksmith shop, doctor's office, etc. - will be relocated on the rural village site adjacent to the museum and put into operation employing craftsmen who will do their thing before the eyes of the visitors. Certain crafts made in the village will be sold through the general store as additional revenue for the museum.

The third main feature of the museum will be an arboretum operated on the grounds showing to visitors all of the trees native to the state with information stations to acquaint the public with the relationship of tree types with soil or other habitat requisites. The museum has acquired the state's last commercial distillery of naval stores which converts pinesap into such products as turpentine, pine oil or pitch. Saw and planing mills on the site will demonstrate the conversion of logs into finished lumber products.

While certain benefits of the museum will assuredly go to Jackson businesses, it is also true that the museum's promotional programs will afford marketing opportunities for the entire state. Its more obvious virtue of preservation appears perhaps less important than future economic opportunities for the entire state.

Bay High Tigers open season in Wiggins Friday

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

The Bay High Tigers meet the Stone County Tomcats in their season opener Friday night in Wiggins, and Bay High Head Coach James "Smuffy" Smith is stressing positive attitudes to both team members and spectators.

Stone County has one game under their belt this season, a 16-7 win over Forrest County last week in a tremendous fourth-quarter effort.

The game will be the maiden voyage for the Smith-led Tigers, who finished the season with a 1-9 record last year.

However, Smith is calling on team members and supporters to enter each game with "an open mind, believing we can win the game."

"There have always been a number of spectators who follow the Tigers whether we win or lose. These spectators give the team a positive attitude," Smith said.

"What I would like to do is go over and above these spectators and bring out large numbers of the population and students behind Bay High with a positive attitude and the frame of mind that the team will take a turn for the better," he continued.

"I have no guarantee when the turn will occur, but with the larger number of people there with the proper attitude, the turn will take place in less time," he added.

"A positive attitude is believing in the kids on the field and with the students behind them under any circumstances. These kids are athletes who have stuck it out and they are going to put out 100 percent and do everything possible," the coach continued.

"I think the team can be successful this year, and even more so with support and backing from spectators," he explained.

"They will give their 100 percent effort, win, lose, or draw, because they believe they can win and if the spectators believe this also, we may win some ballgames this year," Smith added.

Smith said he is trying to get his team conditioned to mentally defeat teams which have been perennial powerhouses, such as Hancock North Central, d'Iberville, and Pass Christian.

"We, as the underdogs, have to sacrifice so much more to compete against the powerhouses," Smith said.

"The only way we can become successful is to work the two teams hard and see if we cannot progress in a limited amount of time," he explained.

"We have to progress to a point up and above people year in and year out in a limited amount of time. This is difficult, but it is important. We have to do this," he continued.

"We are not scared of anybody. Our biggest factor in success is an injury-free season. We are limited in depth and if one or two key men were injured, it would hurt us greatly," he added.

Smith is wary of the Stone County running game, though, and is counting on his physically small but spunky defense to hold the ground attack to a minimum.

Stone County Head Coach Bobby Webb said Monday his team is experienced, and he hopes to start 21 seniors in the 22 slots on the combined defense and offense.

Webb has his backfield intact with the exception of the quarterback, and is counting on a good ground attack to defeat the Tigers.

He said his defense is the only question in the game, but added his monster line forced a Forrest County fumble on the one yard line last week which showed a good defensive attack.

"We only won one game last year also, and I feel we are in the same boat as the Tigers," Webb said.

The game will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Wiggins.

Hancock North Central

Hawks

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

The Hancock North Central Hawks travel to Our Lady of Victories in Pascagoula Saturday night in an attempt to gain their first win of the season following a heartbreaking loss to arch rival Pass Christian last week.

Hawk Head Coach Irvin Favre said he is working on his offense squad, which "didn't click" in the contest against the Pirates which resulted in a 12-0 loss for the HNC eleven.

"Our offense did not move the football...we just didn't click," Favre said Monday.

"We had done a lot of work on the offense, and the inability to move the ball was not because of lack of work," he added.

Bobby Devaughn, rookie quarterback for the Hawks, did an "adequate" job during the opening game, according to Favre.

"Devaughn did an adequate job-not poor, but a good, adequate job," Favre said Monday.

"He threw four interceptions, but that is because he did not have anyone to throw to. The Pass secondary is so fast, it is hard to beat," he HNC skipper continued.

"Bobby had a rough night," he added.

Favre said he is going to have to shuffle players around with the loss of Floyd Willis, who was injured Friday and received surgery and will sit out the rest of the season.

"The changes we will make will be for the betterment of the team," Favre said.

"I am not one to make hasty changes, but we will be in trouble the rest of the year if we do not make the moves," he said.

Favre said he has no knowledge of what lies in store with the OLV squad Saturday, but added he will not brag until his squad wins a ball game.

OLV Head Coach Bragg Moore said Wednesday his squad is not large in physical size, but says he has an experienced backfield to run against the HNC defense.

"Our running game is our bread and butter," Moore said.

"We have retained two starters in the backfield, and our quarterback is a transplanted defensive end and wide receiver," he continued.

"We have changed our defense to make them more consistent, but we are not big. We have nobody over 200 pounds," he added.

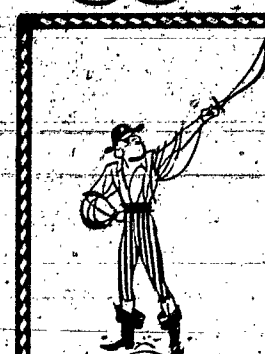

Moore's squad was defeated by Leakeville last week 38-7, and he made the defensive changes to try to contain opposing offenses better.

He predicted the bout with the Hawks will be a physical meeting, and said the past two conflicts with the HNC eleven have resulted in OLV losses by two points each game.

"Both teams always seem to be up for the contest," Moore said.

"We have fun and enjoy the game against Hancock," he added.

Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m. at OLV Saturday.

Pass Christian

Pirates

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

The gridiron forces of Pass Christian, riding high after an impressive 12-0 opening victory over arch-rival Hancock North Central, travel to Vancleave Friday to face a young Vancleave squad in the Bulldog's first game of the season.

Pirate Head Coach Bob Lumpkin said Monday he is working on the Cornell Swanier-led offense, which he is pleased with but notes inconsistencies in play.

"We had a pretty team game last Friday," said Lumpkin.

"Our offense showed inconsistencies, but the defense looked real good and kept us in the game a few times," the second-year skipper noted.

"I was pleased with Swanier at the quarterback position. He did a good job. I had never seen him under fire before," the head coach added.

Swanier, a senior, replaces his brother, Virgil, in the signal calling position for the Pass Pirates, a job which he has wanted but has settled for watching from the sidelines while his sibling led the Pirates into the Pickle Bowl last year.

"(Swanier) had to scramble a few times, but he beat a lot of folks on the field," Lumpkin said.

The Pirate team suffered defense problems last year, but juggled the team around near mid-season and returned with a winning combination.

This year, however, Lumpkin feels his defense is the key to the team, and has nothing but praise for them.

"We will stick to what we have here. It is working out pretty good so far, and if we changed we could do a lot worse damage than good," the head coach stated.

Gene Lang, the running back cited by Lumpkin as "the fastest back on the Gulf Coast," did his thing Friday as he rolled up 115 yards in 15 carries.

"He is still there," Lumpkin said of Lang. "He has still got all of his ability."

Lang scored the Pirate's first goal of the season as he ran in from the 16 yard line Friday.

Lumpkin said the offense is being worked on for the match against Vancleave this week, and said the overall team has a good attitude.

In their last encounter, the Pass eleven shut out the Bulldogs 22-0.

Vancleave Skipper Alton Waltman said Monday he is not sure how his young team will fare in their opener against the feared Pirates.

"We have a young ballclub, but we also have experienced quarterbacks and depth in the running backs," Waltman said.

He said his ground game is questionable because of a lack of speed in the backfield, but added his passing game is better than last year.

"We have a game plan and we will get right into it. We will just have to wait and see what happens when we get into the fire and test our team," Waltman said.

Vancleave ended the season last year with a 7-3 slate.

The game Friday begins at 7:30 p.m.

SIDELINE
SYNOPSIS

By Rich Adams
Sports Editor

The Bay High Tigers debut tomorrow
as they clash with the Stone County Tomcats up north, a match which has not occurred since 1976.

Little is known about the Bay High eleven except what was seen in the Spring-Jamboree, where the Tigers dropped both 'mini-games' to Hancock
North Central and St. Stanislaus.

Head Coach James 'Snuffy' Smith will be leading the Tigers in this game, his maiden voyage, and is counting on a program of revitalization and a renewal of team and fan spirit to lift his squad from the losing bracket.

Calling signals for the Bay eleven will be Chuck Benigno, who saw limited action in that position last year in the shadow of Dwayne LaFontaine.

The Tigers are a fairly inexperienced team, but Smith has reported the attitude is good and spirits are high for the opener against the Tomcats.

The Stone County win-loss slate last year was 1-9, identical to that of the Tigers.

Stone County Head Coach Jimmy
Webb said his team is in the same boat as the Bay Tigers, with experienced players the minority in the lineup.

With the opening game for the Tomcats out of the way, they should be finished with first night butterflies in their stomachs.

The defeated Forrest County in that game last week in a come-from-behind victory, and that one victory should prove the catalyst which will send the Tomcats to the locker room victorious over the Tigers.

But the match should be a good catchup, and an interesting opener to watch.

Last Friday Pass Christian flexed its muscles and did away with the Hancock North Central squad, outlasting the Hawks 12-0.

Head Coach Bob Lumpkin, starting out right for his second winning season in as many years as Pirate skipper, said the defense was responsible for the win as they kept HNC to a minimum.

It cannot be overlooked, however,
that senior running back Gene Lang rushed for an impressive 115 yards in 15 carries, adding substantiation to his coach's title of "the fastest back on the Gulf Coast."

Cornell Swanier held his own as quarterback for the Pass High eleven, and was reportedly calm and collective as he moved his squad downfield against the Hawks.

The Pirate defense is extremely tough, especially the secondary, of which Lang is also a star.

The Pirates take on the Vancleave Bulldogs in their first away game of the year this Friday, the season opener for the Bulldogs.

Reports indicate the Bulldog defense is not 'Pirate-class,' and the team is somewhat inexperienced.

Lang should travel near 200 yards in that game, if he is up to par, and the Pirates should come home with a greater victory than last year's 22-0 shutout of the Bulldogs.

Hancock North Central, last years' county champions, travel to Our Lady of Victories Friday to try to capture their first victory.

Hancock was known for its comeback attitude last year, and should carry that momentum east as they attack the OLV eleven.

Bobby Devaughn, first-year quarterback for the HNC squad, performed
'adequately' last week against the Pirates, according to Head Coach Irvin Favre.

Devaughn threw four interceptions, but going against the Pass Christian defense makes interceptions something a quarterback almost can count on.

I predict the Hawks will call on their comeback spirit and take their first victory of the young season Friday.

Soccer registration ends Saturday

Registration for the Bay
Waveland area soccer teams will conclude Saturday at the Lutheran Church of the Pines on US-90 in Waveland from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

A $12 registration fee is being collected to cover the cost of insurance, team shirts, and other expenses.

Some 50 boys and girls
signed up for the teams last Saturday, according to Soccer
Chairman Tom Demboski.

"I think we had an excellent turn out. We registered almost as many people as we had competing on the four soccer teams last year," Demboski said.

"We had a strong turn out for teams in the eight and nine-year-old division, and also in the 10- and 11-year-old category. We are definitely going to have two teams

competing in the under-12 age bracket, and it looks like we will have a second team in the under 10 bracket also," he continued.

"It is important that the youth who want to play soccer on an organized team register at this time. By registering Saturday a player assures himself or herself of being placed on a team," Demboski stated.

"We don't want to give the impression that registration is completely finished at 12 noon on Sept. 8. But if a player wants to play soccer after that time, it depends totally upon whether there is a roster opening," he continued.

For more information about the soccer program call Demboski at 467-4773.

Spanish Olive Oil Revealed As

Elegant Secret Of Great Italian Cooks

Try these secret Italian recipes to take the "ELABORATE" out of regular family dishes and turn them into gourmet delights.

Did you know Spanish Olive Oil is the ONLY oil to keep spaghetti from sticking? Notice each recipe includes delicate, light Spanish Olive Oil as packed by Pompano.

SPAGHETTI MEAT SAUCE

- 1 cup POMPEIANO Olive Oil
- 1 cup chopped onions (2 large)
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 2-1 lb. cans whole peeled tomatoes
- 2-6 oz. cans tomato paste

- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon marjoram
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Heat olive oil in a large saucepan. Add onions and garlic and cook until soft, about 5 minutes. Add ground beef and fry until brown. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 2 1/2 to 3 hours, stirring occasionally, until sauce thickens. Makes 3 1/2 pints. Prepare your spaghetti as usual. Serve sauce over spaghetti. It's delicious "Italiano."

ITALIAN POT ROAST

- 2 tablespoons Spanish Olive Oil
- 2 1/2 pounds top round or chuck roast
- 2 onions, sliced
- 1 clove garlic
- crushed salt and pepper
- 1-2 oz. can tomatoes
- 1/2 pint stock or water
- 4 tablespoons red wine
- 6 to 8 stuffed olives, sliced

Heat olive oil in a large saucepan. Add onions and garlic and cook until soft, about 5 minutes. Add ground beef and fry until brown. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 2 1/2 to 3 hours, stirring occasionally, until sauce thickens. Makes 3 1/2 pints. Prepare your spaghetti as usual. Serve sauce over spaghetti. It's delicious "Italiano."

Heat the olive oil in the cooker (with the trivet removed) and brown the meat on all sides. Lift out the meat and place the trivet in the base of the cooker. Replace the joint on the trivet. Add the onions, garlic, seasoning, tomatoes and herbs. Pour in the stock and wine, making sure that the cooker is not more than half full. Bring to high pressure and cook for 30 minutes. Allow the pressure to reduce at room temperature. Check the seasoning, stir in the olives and serve.

ZUCCHINI ITALIANO

(4 servings)

- 3 tablespoons Spanish Olive Oil
- 2 small white onions, chopped
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 pound firm, 1 1/2-inch diameter zucchini, cut into 1/2-inch slices
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano

Combine olive oil, onion and garlic in an 8-inch square glass baking dish and cook 3 minutes. Stir in zucchini and season with salt and oregano. Cover and cook 3 minutes. Stir. Cook additional 3 minutes. Stir. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes, before serving.

ITALIAN Dessert

CRUNCHY APPLES CARAMEL

- 1/2 cup walnuts
- 2 tbs. Pompano Olive Oil
- 2 tbs. butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 lbs. (3 large) red apples, cored and sliced into rings
- 1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 3 tbs. water
- 1/2 cup golden raisins
- 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
- dash salt

Saute walnuts in olive oil and butter in large skillet until lightly toasted; remove from pan. Fry apple rings on both sides until tender. Place apples and nuts in shallow serving dish; keep warm. Combine remaining ingredients in skillet; stir and heat until sugar dissolves and boils. Pour over apples and nuts. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

HANCOCK COUNTY FAIR

READY GRAIN BINS

If you plan to store grain in bins or warehouses this fall, you need to get them ready for seed storage now. First, check the facilities to make sure they are in usable condition. Then, sweep out of vacuum all leftover grain, grain dust and trash.

Be sure to clean areas behind safety shields, partitions and under false floors as well as floors and walls.

This is also a good time to check your seed handling equipment and make any needed repairs. Doing these jobs now will avoid costly delays during harvest.

PIGS NEED IRON

If you raise pigs on a concrete floor, you need to make sure they get enough iron. Pigs raised on the outside usually get the iron they need from the soil.

However, this source is cut off if pigs are born and raised on concrete. As a result, the pigs may develop iron deficiency anemia.

To prevent this, provide your pigs with an iron supplement. There are several on the market. As with all medications, follow label directions carefully.

WINTER LAWN WEEDS

This is the time of year when annual bluegrass, chickweed, henbit and other weeds begin emerging in lawns.

This winter, these weeds can cause unsightly green spots that ruin the beauty of a well-kept dormant brown lawn. You can prevent many of these weed problems in your lawn this winter if you act now.

Remove small spots of hoeing, pulling or mowing. Heavy infestations, however, may require the use of a preemergence herbicide.

It is important to select the herbicide for your lawn grass and weed problem. If you need help in selecting a herbicide or other information on fall lawn care, contact the county Extension Office.

TRADE SYMPOSIUM

U.S. Dept. of Commerce will be holding a trade symposium on September 10-11 at the Sheraton Hotel in New Orleans.

report on his August fact-finding mission to the Far East, with emphasis on trading opportunities.

The University of Mississippi's Division of Continuing Education and School of Business Administration, in cooperation with several agencies and associations, will sponsor the program. Registration and program information may be obtained by writing to: International Trade Forum, Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, Miss. 38677, or phoning (601) 232-7282.

VACCINE POISON IVY

Scientists at the Ole Miss School of Pharmacy have filed patent applications for a method of preventing allergic reactions to poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac. The treatment, which could lead to an immunization similar to the polio vaccine, is a breakthrough in a 10-year study by the Research Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences at Ole Miss. The discovery may make it possible to immunize infants and children so they they will never develop reactions to the plants, and to protect adults who have already been exposed to the plants, but further testing must be done before the treatment is used by humans. It was developed by Dr. Sue Watson, an immunologist; Dr. Mahmoud Elsohly, a pharmacologist; and Dr. Coy Walker, a natural products chemist.

Cypress District charts new Bay Scout troop

By EDGAR PEREZ

The First Missionary Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis is sponsor of the city's newest Boy Scout organization, Troop 777. Jim Groce, Scouting's Cypress District executive, said the new charter has been issued to the Bay troop as part of a District effort to bring Scouting to more Hancock County youth.

"Scout troops are chartered to community organizations, churches and schools which use the Scouting program as an integral part of their own youth work," Groce explained.

Cypress District, encompassing Hancock County and part of St. Tammany Parish in Louisiana, is one of seven districts in the New Orleans Area Council, Groce noted.

Serving as liaison officer between the new troop's sponsoring church and the district will be Alfred H. Sheppard who was named Scouting coordinator by the First Missionary Baptist. He thus becomes a member of the Area Council and District Committee.

Sheppard is a graduate of Jackson State University and teaches in the Bay St. Louis Municipal School System.

"The First Missionary Baptist Church and Sheppard are to be commended for their work in bringing Scouting to the boys of this area," Groce said.

He noted plans are underway by the church and Cypress District to form a new Cub Scout Pack in the area.

Steve R. Laneaux, with an extensive Scouting background, has named scoutmaster of Troop 777, and will be assisted by Louis J. Dunklin.

The Troop Committee is composed of Sheppard, chairman; Paul M. Lewis; Willie C. Acker; Gilbert J. Whayers and Edward Joseph Jr.

The Troop will meet weekly at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesdays in the church's Fellowship Hall.

Boys in the community ages 11 through 17 years interested in joining the new troop are urged to contact Laneaux at 467-3077.

The new troop is also seeking donations from individuals or groups of serviceable Boy Scout uniforms, camping gear and troop equipment. Contact Sheppard at 467-9437.

Money, finance should be elementary school subjects

Money IS FUNNY

When things go up in price, money goes down in value. Right now with prices high on things, money is not worth as much as a short time ago.

If a man makes $5 per day, which was a good wage back a few years ago, he can pay a $10 debt with 2 day's work. If he gets his pay raised to $10 per day he can pay that same debt with only one day's work, instead of two.

The value of money works directly opposite to the prices of things. For that reason money is to many people a complicated subject. Money has been hard to understand down through the ages.

A seeming contradiction about money is that under ordinary conditions it is wise to save money when it is cheap - when it will not buy much - as under present conditions - and wise to spend it when it has high value and will buy much more. For instance if a man has a dollar today that'll buy only one certain thing, if he can save it until prices go down and maybe buy two things or maybe three of that same certain thing with that one dollar that'll buy only one of now. (This was the general experience before the days of inflation).

Back in 1927 to 1930 prices were high, which is another way of saying money was cheap and things were high. A dollar in 1929 would buy very little compared with what it would buy in 1933.

For instance, I bought a tract of 160 acres of land in 1928 for $10 per acre. In 1933 I bought the land around that same 160 acres for only $1 an acre.

In that particular instance money was worth 10 times as much in 1933 as in 1928 while land was worth only 10 percent as much. If I had saved my $1,600 I paid for the 160 acres in 1928, I could have bought 1600 acres for the same money in 1933.

Buying real estate while it was cheap, and keeping it until it got high, and then selling it is the basis of many big fortunes.

I read sometime back of a piece of real estate in New York City being bought at a low price in 1922 and then sold at a high price in 1928; and then the same man buying that same piece of real estate after it went down in price in the 30's for about 1/10 of what he had sold it for a few years before.

Speaking of the Gulf Coast, Helen He is reputed to have made a million dollars on that one Company president's piece of real estate.

A man who is said to have made a fortune out of the same kind of investments when prices were low and things were high.

asked his secret for making money replied, "Buy when others want to sell for then you can buy cheap, and sell when others want to buy for then you can get a much better price."

Right now many people are making more money than they've ever made before. Isn't it a good idea to save part of this money for the time that will almost surely come when it will buy much more than it will now? (This again is based on former conditions, before existing inflation).

Money now is cheap. A dollar will not buy very much. It is now somewhat like during the late 1920's. Things cannot always keep going up. A time will come, no one knows when, when money will again be worth more and things be worth less. (This is the former general experience).

It has always been a strange thing to me that when things are high priced, most people want to buy them; but when they get cheap very few want them.

I believe that people should be very careful in making obligations now. If a man makes an obligation when prices are high and money cheap and then has to pay it back when things are cheap and money high, it will take much more labor and time to pay what he owes.

For instance if a man makes an obligation to pay $1,000 while working at $20 a day he could pay it back with 50 days work, but if a let-up in business should come and he had to pay it back with labor at $5 per day, it would take 200 days labor to pay the obligation instead of 50 days.

Not too long ago, before the development of modern banking, when a merchant bought a bill of goods, he had to deliver the money itself to his creditor.

There was no provision for paying by check as is done today. This was a cumbersome and dangerous way to transfer money.

Today if a man sends a check to Chicago pay for merchandise bought there, not actual money changes hands. The whole transaction is handled through bookkeeping in the banks. The bank in Chicago will credit the seller's account in that bank and charge the check to the account of the correspondent bank in New Orleans.

When the bank there gets the check, it is credited to the Chicago bank and charged to the account of the man who wrote the check. It's all a matter of bookkeeping. No money changes hands at all.

The Rothschild's, European international bankers, are credited with originating the bookkeeping method of transferring money. They opened offices in many cities and built a worldwide banking business because of the greater convenience and safety of this new way of doing business.

Today business all over the world is transacted by this bookkeeping method. If a bank in New York for instance accumulates too much money due a bank in New Orleans, then transfer of actual money sometimes takes place.

We read and hear much about inflation. Inflation occurs when there is more money to buy with than things to buy.

That is the condition today. Inflation is stopped when more things are grown or made to supply demand.

A recession comes when things are plentiful in supply - in other words when there are more things for sale than there is money to buy them with. Prices on things go down and the value of money goes up and vice versa.

I believe that the subject of money should be taught in all schools - on down to the elementary grades. Money is now the universal medium of exchange. Everybody handles and uses money but few people really understand it. Then, why not teach how and why it works?

Money represents commodities and labor. We can't swap labor or things for goods in the stores, nor can we swap the produce of the farm for clothes and other things in stores.

So, we use money as a convenience to take the place of and represent our labor and commodities. A man works for $10. That $10 represents the amount of work done.

He can take the money representing his wages and spend it for whatever he wants to.

GI mobile home loan policy changed in '78

Veterans who used GI loan entitlement to purchase mobile home prior October 1, 1978, now have additional entitlement available and may not be aware of it, according to Mike Ladner, veterans service officer for Hancock County.

Prior to that date, veterans who obtained a GI mobile home loan used their full entitlement and their certificate of eligibility was marked "NO ENTITLEMENT AVAILABLE FOR USE."

The Veterans Housing Benefits Act of 1978 (Public Law 95-476) effective October 1, 1978, liberalized mobile home loan entitlement and the restricted use notation on the certificates no longer applies.

Veterans are now entitled to the difference between the amount of entitlement they actually used and the statutory limit of $25,000.

Some veterans may even qualify for reinstatement of their full entitlement if the mobile home loan has been repaid in full and the unit secured the loan has been disposed of.

Veterans who wish to have their "NO ENTITLEMENT AVAILABLE FOR USE" and certificates updated should contact Ladner for assistance in completing a VA Form 26-1880.

This completed and signed form, along with their Certificate of Eligibility, should be sent to the Loan Guaranty Office of the Veterans Administration, serving their locality.

The corrective action will be taken by the VA and the certificate returned to the veteran, who may then determine whether his remaining entitlement is sufficient to promote another GI home loan, should the veteran be in the market for a new residence. If the mobile home has been paid off and disposed of, the veteran should submit evidence of this to the VA. Consideration may then be given to the matter of restoration of full GI home loan entitlement to the veteran.

Fall Is Clean-Up Time - Outside for you, Inside for ServiceMaster.

Pleasant autumn temperatures make homeowners anxious about cleaning. It's a good idea to enjoy your outside cleaning such as raking, pruning, painting, etc. before the winds chill. But the problem is to also find time and energy to clean the inside of your house after the hectic and busy of summer-time activities.

That's why fall is the busiest season for ServiceMaster. We get calls to clean and treat carpeting, floors, walls and ceilings, drapes and furniture. We also get calls for cleaning and disinfecting such as kitchen, recreation, bath, living, even basement or garage. And on occasion, our house wide cleaning services are requested.

We're busy, but not too busy to find time to save you time with your inside household cleaning.

Late summer critical to soybean producers

FARM NEWS AND VIEWS
By MIKE WINDHAM
Writer-Reporter
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

The late summer months are just about the most critical time of year for the state's soybean producers.

The crop can be planted late, and there are several alternate methods of early season weed control.

But, during August and September, the soybean crop needs moisture for proper pod development and insect control is at its most critical point.

Insects can multiply rapidly and reach beyond the economic threshold within days.

An entire crop can be lost if insect pressures aren't checked continually.

Dr. Lavone Lambert, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service pest management specialist, says Mississippi producers have been fortunate this year.

Insect numbers in soybean fields have been relatively low.

"In the last few weeks, however, the green cloverworm has been increasing rapidly," he says.

The green cloverworm is a foliage feeding insect. The worm is a green, caterpillar-like work with three prolegs. It's unique because the populations are generally low in Mississippi.

Occasionally, the population will build up, and according to Dr. Lambert, this is one of those seasons.

"If conditions are good, then we see this insect. It's very susceptible to disease. Normally we have good conditions for diseases in our fields. The diseases control the worm," he adds.

"This year, conditions were such that we didn't have much disease, so we're seeing more of the green cloverworm."

Dr. Lambert points out that the green cloverworm is easy to control. If control is needed, it's no problem for producers to spray with insecticide and control the insect.

The problem is confusion. Producers confuse the green cloverworm with soybean and cabbage loopers. The cabbage looper is difficult to control. Producers have trouble identifying the insects because they are similar.

The green cloverworm differs from the soybean or cabbage looper in that the cloverworm has three pairs of prolegs—the fleshy legs under the insect's abdomen. When the green cloverworm is disturbed, it becomes active and moves around a lot, according to Dr. Lambert.

The soybean looper or cabbage looper has two pairs of prolegs and doesn't react actively when disturbed.

Both insects are green, with white stripes along the sides of their bodies. Both are also foliage feeders.

So far, Dr. Lambert says, he hasn't seen any problems with the soybean looper in soybean fields across the state. He says it's a late season insect, and it will be late in the season before the looper shows up in scouting reports.

"We could have a problem this fall, but at this point, we're not seeing any loopers," Dr. Lambert says. "If producers suspect they see this worm, then they are probably mistaken and really seeing the green cloverworm now."

"The cabbage looper prefers cotton. This is mainly where you will find it. Then you'll find the soybean loopers in soybean fields, and the cabbage looper will be found in soybean fields to some degree. Both species are generally found in soybean fields," he adds.

One insect, however, is beginning to increase in numbers already. Producers need to watch for the boll worm in soybeans. This is the same "boll worm" that customarily feeds in cotton.

"We're beginning to see an upsurge. We could see some problems this season because so much of our crop is late. We always have a problem with the boll worm when our crop is late," Dr. Lambert warns.

Even though the boll worm is known primarily as a cotton insect, the insect like to move into blooming soybean fields to lay their eggs.

Dr. Lambert tells producers to watch their fields through the remainder of this year's growing season.

He says it's important to keep an accurate picture of insect levels from now until harvest time. He also says producers must scout their fields to judge insect levels; there is no other way to keep up with insect pressures.

PLANTS HARMFUL TO HUMANS

Feeding the American preoccupation with new, exciting and unknown ways of getting cancer has created an unbelievable extravaganza of news—matter concerning various chemical and food substances. Meanwhile, far less attention has been given to learning the known and proven dangers of many common poisonous plants.

Annually some 12,000 children in the United States in both town and country make themselves ill from ingestion of toxic plants while frequently the parents had no idea the plants were harmful.

Author John Kingsburg in his book POISONOUS PLANTS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA states that there are more than 700 species of plants that are known to have caused death or illness. Many of these abound in Mississippi and are a menace unless their toxicity is known and respected.

In this column we shall first look at a few in the yard—then the field. The castor bean plant often is grown in southern landscaping for its ornamental value as a large border or screening plant. The seeds, sold in any garden store, contain the powerful blood poison ricin that could kill a child or an adult. This plant further is grown for oil and its press cake or foliage likewise can be fatal. From two to four seeds may kill humans. These seeds, or beans, are a mottled black and brown and resemble a beetle. Children often play with them, and jewelry makers sometimes string them into beads.

Biting or sucking on tree twigs indiscriminately could be fatal for a child as twigs of cherry trees release cyanide when eaten and the leaves of peach trees contain hydrocyanic acid—one of the five most dangerous poisons known.

Even the vegetable garden is not off limits for poisonous plants. The foliage of potatoes and tomatoes contain alkaloid poisons that can, if swallowed, create nervous disorders and stomach upset. But the most dangerous plant in the vegetable garden is rhubarb. Its stalk is commonly used in baking and cooking, and makes delicious tart, wholesome food. Yet the leaf blade contains oxalic acid which crystallizes in the kidneys and causes severe damage if a number of leaves are eaten.

Mistletoe berries commonly used as Christmas decorations are deadly if eaten particularly by children. Afield, especially in and around hog lots, the Jimsonweed is an attractive bushy plant that emits a strong odor when crushed. This weed is very poisonous.

Oleander bushes are common southern ornamental shrubs and highly poisonous. People have died after eating oleander stems and cooked over an open fire.

Morning glory seeds can have an effect similar to that of Jimsonweed, and often these grow within the bounds of children at play in their yard.

In the countryside not only do humans need to watch what they nibble—but what they touch. Most adults know to avoid such things as poison ivy and oak, or sumac, to avoid blistering their skin. These plants contain a toxin which produces dermatitis on contact. The combination of toxin with skin proteins is immediate, so washing with yellow soap is futile.

Woods nettle grows in rich moist woods and along stream banks. The foliage and stems are beset with stinging hairs which may torment a person for many hours. As the stinging hairs break on contact, they secrete a resinous acid which produces intense itching. This writer has had the unfortunate experience of mowing through a patch of these weeds bareback. It was a very painful experience!

Tall buttercups in recent years have become very populous in many Mississippi pastures. These plants with their acid juices contain a highly irritant yellow oil which may blister the skin. It is best to admire them from a distance.

SOIL TEST

You will have time to take soil samples to determine lime and fertilizer needs on pasture or row crop land to be planted this fall. Soil testing takes the guesswork out of lime and fertilizer programs.

Be sure to take a representative sample from each field; the recommendation won't be a good one if it is based on a poor sample.

There were 5,569,000 broiler chicks placed on Mississippi farms during the week ending August 11, 1979, 1 percent below the previous week but 7 percent above the corresponding week a year ago.

Cumulative placements for 1979 are 184,989,000 broiler chicks—3 percent above a year earlier.
